

Studies show that acupuncture can relieve pain

With biofeedback techniques, patients learn to control their breathing, muscle tension, heart rate, and blood pressure—all of which are closely tied to how we experience anxiety, stress, and pain. Research has found that biofeedback treatments can reduce the frequency and duration of headaches and may even work as well as some medications in relieving chronic pain.

continued

Visit us at PARADE.COM